A unique roof drainage and aeration underlay

The success of a green roof is very dependent upon the substructure for the healthy plant growth. Our Roof-drain lower layer consists of a perforated cusped recycled core with selected geo-textiles thermally bonded on each side. The core acts as a water reservoir for plant roots to access in dry periods.

The Roof-drain layer also provides easy drainage and aeration for optimum plant growth, as well as minimizing any adverse effects to your roof structure. It is ideal for extensive green roofs as it provides a lightweight drainage layer and water reservoir to sustain plant growth.
